Former Russ Tells Activity Of Red Spies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—A former high Soviet intelligence official has charged that Russia is running spy rings in the United States under cover of every type of legitimate activity, including TASS, the Soviet news agency.

Chas. E. Felt, who broke with the Soviet Union during World War II and recently testified before the Senate Internal Security Committee, said that during the last war high Soviet officials boasted that after the fall of Hitler, the United States would be next.

In a television interview last week, Felt said he was once president of Tass in Berlin at the same time he was president of Soviet intelligence departments in the German capital. He said the news agency always was "one of the major organizations for Soviet espionage."

He said it was "quite logical" to believe that one Russian spy network is now operating in this country. He said American, Russian, French, British, and other spy organizations, he said, are all at a core by Soviet agents.

Most languages recognize from 20 to 25 letters in their alphabet, he said. The Russians get along with only 12 letters.

Newspaper Swamped by Calls

Handling the avalanche of telephone calls from Toledo (Ohio) Blade readers who wanted to add their names to a unique "letter" was this crew of 10 telephone answering service personnel. It all started Dec. 4 with a front page suggestion that readers support President Eisenhower in response to Sen. Joseph McCarthy's "write-the-president" campaign. Through jammed switchboards, calls came in at the rate of 1,000 an hour. (AP wirephoto)

Tours Bases

Anderson is scheduled to confer with President Syngman Rhee tomorrow, then visit the first marine division. He returns to Tokyo Wednesday for a two-day inspection of U. S. naval facilities in Japan.

Big 3 Confab Is Viewed With Suspicion by Asiatic Nations

By PHIL NEWSON
UP FORNIA News Editor

Nowhere will interest be greater than in the far east, and nowhere, except perhaps in Moscow, will it be viewed with greater suspicion.

The interesting thing about it is that the suspicions are held by persons normally friendly to the participating powers—the United States, Britain and France.

Among the things they fear is a secret to the communist.

Most outspoken have been the nationalist Chinese on Formosa and President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

But others, such as the anti-communist Viet Namese in Indo-China, fear French pressure for a one-sided deal to get out of the seven-year-old Indo-China war, and the Indonesians who suspect the western powers of trying to force them into the east-west conflict.

Rhee snuffed at the Bermuda meeting as a "waste of time and energy."

"We're too busy fighting communists," he said.

Newspapers in Taipei talk about an "Asian Munich."

Foreign Minister—George—Vehvald the conference "every success" but warned that nationalist China would not recognize "any decision made at Bermuda pertaining to the far east" unless Asian governments were consulted first.

Indonesia reacted violently to suggestions that the big three might take up recent rebel activities there as a further communist threat to free Asia.

In so many words, Indonesians told the big three to mind their own business.

They said they would stick to their "independent foreign policy" even if they appeared in western eyes to lean toward communist China.

India's Prime Minister Nehru also has indicated repeatedly he believes any big three meeting a waste of time which could be spent better in a big four or big five meeting.

which would include Russia and Red China.

Nehru regards Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as unimportant.

Generally speaking, oriental suspicions of the west spring from two sources. A southeast Asia diplomat in Singapore summed it up this way: "Maybe it's hard for Americans and the rest of the west to understand, but most free Asians view communism only as the second greatest enemy to their independence. The first and greatest threat is still considered to be colonialism by every Asian who ever had to bow his head to a westerner."

He spoke for Nehru, Indonesia and Burma.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The Democrats in the next congress will win another fight against troublesome Republicans on behalf of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The fight will be a long one, but the Democrats, the foreign front. Although not entirely for unselfish reasons, the opposition will align itself on the civil service system. It will be one of the most controversial questions before the forthcoming congress.

Republicans of high and low degree are not united on this matter. The failure to profit in jobs from their first national victory in 30 years. The civil service system has been a source of contention for less than half of the 1,600 positions held to be legal.

It is open to new policy-makers at the top, there has been no wholesale exodus of minor employees. The question has been raised at several cabinet meetings by Postmaster-General Summerfield and Attorney-General Brownell, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It is time for a change. They think "the" system is a time for a change. They think "the" system is a time for a change. They think "the" system is a time for a change.

AMA FIGHTS VA POLICY

The American Medical Association has launched a campaign to get the laws which now permit the Veterans' administration to give free medical care to ex-servicemen for injuries or illness not resulting from their duty in uniform must be changed. These are known as "non-service-connected disability cases."

This is something of an old fight. In the past, AMA has taken on the Veterans' administration and congress, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and all other service organizations, without result. The decision to have state and county medical associations get at the question and congressmen at the local level was made at a closed conference on veterans' medical care, held in Chicago in September. A copy of the report on that meeting, now being circulated to all members of AMA for their local action, declares:

"Congressmen are politicians, and many believe that opposing veterans' benefits is political suicide. We must convince them otherwise. . . . The program must be limited before it becomes a runaway."

Just how much of a "runaway" the present service-connected disability program is today remains a point of dispute between veterans' organizations and AMA. Backed up by a general accounting office survey, the government finds that the average number of patients in VA hospitals on a given day is around 100,000. Of these, 68,000 or 64 per cent are non-service-connected disabilities. The cost distribution is 178 million dollars a year for the service disability cases, 323 million dollars a year for non-service-connected cases.

Using a different basis for calculation, AMA doctors find that the number of VA hospital admissions and discharges around 500,000 a year, and that 88 per cent of these are non-service-connected disability cases. In this proportion, the cost of medical care for veterans whose illnesses have nothing to do with their military service costs taxpayers 425 million dollars a year.

The present AMA policy, adopted by its house of delegates last June, declares that all veterans who suffered physical or mental disability by reason of military service are entitled to federal aid. Tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric cases are also considered eligible for federal aid, whether service-connected or not, because state and local facilities are not adequate to provide this care. All other cases should be handled by private medical practice.

"This policy is based on the belief that the veteran who suffered no disability in service deserves no special consideration," says the AMA report. "Present legislation . . . admits a large group which does not deserve VA hospitalization and is not a proper burden on the taxpayers."

RICH IN RESOURCES

Depending on how you look at it, income statistics and the like can be put in dry and routine, or they can tell exciting stories.

Take the recent batch turned out by the Twentieth Century Fund, a well-established economic and social research organization. It reported that the United States now has 40 per cent of the world's income. No other nation is within miles of that percentage.

But we all know America is a country rich in resources and output. To confirm the fact statistically, you might say, is something about the fact that the United States now has 40 per cent of the world's income. No other nation is within miles of that percentage.

For, as the fund shows, the striking thing about America's income is that it has grown so much—not only in absolute volume but relative to other nations. In 1935, we had just about 25 per cent of the world's income. The advance from 25 per cent to 40 per cent of world income means many things.

It is a tribute to American inventive genius, organizational know-how, productivity. It is one more demonstration of the blessings of varied and abundant resources. It also makes the fact that throughout a bitter six-year war our industrial facilities were spared the ravages of shellfire and bombs.

We were not only free to develop according to our talents and our capacities. It was vital to our survival and the whole free world's that we use these things with mighty effect.

When it was all over, we loomed much larger than before. Perhaps we would have gained a bigger edge over other countries even without the war. But it seems fair to say that the great stimulus of war, with its hurt to other nations, exaggerated our dominance.

It is because of that dominance that so many nations look to us for assistance.

Now he's deluged with radio, TV, night-club and recording offers.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—Further inquiry into the interesting activities of Sam Carp, Bridgeport, Conn., and his associates in the defense of Russia, shows he was a much more than a "fellow" than his countrymen.

On the question whether he was an "agent," a letter from Hull to Roosevelt dated the 10th of September, 1935, the Carps Export and Import corporation, organized as a partnership between Sam Carp and his brother, David Carp, began negotiations to purchase one or more submarines in this country.

The letter said the Soviet went to get the plans, which by that time already had been drawn, "even though a $200,000 fee would be paid to the United States."

Later, Carps wrote, "I went to Moscow with Carps and myself and explained the details of the proposed submarine sale to the Soviet government."

A state department document reports that these Soviet officials had been "detained" and "had given 'detailed explanations' of the document said they understood the details of the proposed submarine sale."

Some junior American naval officers who are not named, did they could take up the submarine sale to the Soviet government, and Carps and his brother, David Carp, were "detained" and "had given 'detailed explanations' of the document said they understood the details of the proposed submarine sale."

Speed "broke into his chassis. His torpedo-like body has a blunt, pointed nose, a short neck, and sturdy shoulders that taper to his moderately long tail, the whole covered with almost featureless scales. In his motor-like eye, legs and big yellow feet are folded, close to body."

To provide air, his nostrils have a complicated series of baffles which channel the wind into his lungs. His velocity to a mere whizzer. Air within his hollow paper-thin body is warmed by the heat of his lungs, and gives him buoyancy for maneuvering. Even in high thin air, he can turn on a dime.

As with most hawks, this sharp-shinned male is before the year, mate, in this instance one-third of the year.

Mexico Land Reform Plan Boosts Crops

MEXICO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mexico, planner of modern land reform, are evidence that subdivision of large estates causes neither rural poverty nor lowered crop production.

Partly because of Mexico's record of the seventh world conference of the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization, Mexico City last week to make permanent city the permanent site of Latin American land reform research center.

Ramon Beteta, ambassador of Mexico and head of Mexico's delegation, said:

"We have increased our cotton crop from 300,000 bales to 1,000,000. Fifty per cent of that is from land subdivided in our agrarian reform program.

"Our land reform, our rural production has increased from nine million to 14 1/2 million, despite the fact that in these recent years the rate of population everywhere has been toward the cities."

Beteta in 1949.

The ambassador explained in an interview that Mexico began land reform in some sections after the revolution, and on a national scale after 1917.

"This is the only country," he said, "where land reform is guaranteed under a constitutional amendment. Under our system, land reform also is perpetual. That is, new generation is guaranteed shares of our lands."

Solon Wants More Probes Into Communist Activities on Coast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—House tax committee investigators today sharply criticized the internal revenue service for "tax enforcement" of the tax laws and failure to require taxpayers to keep better records of their sources of income.

A house ways and means subcommittee said that "even less excusable" has been the failure of the bureau to make full use of information it does get from taxpayers.

"A reworking of the entire information return program is in order," the subcommittee said in a report to the full committee.

The subcommittee, which has spent two years investigating tax evasion, said the case of Henry W. Grunwald points up the "inadequacy" of the present system. Grunwald, who last week completed a jail sentence for contempt of congress, refused to cooperate with the subcommittee when it asked him about his financial affairs.

"During the years when the subcommittee suspects that Grunwald was receiving major sums for tampering with tax cases, his returns reflect large earnings from unidentified sources," the report noted.

Inducted

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7—One Lincoln county man, Paul Laraine Jones, 25, will be sent for induction into the army on Dec. 17, Mrs. Pearl Aldrich, selective service clerk, said.

Two men will be sent notices for pre-induction physical examinations. They are Juan Edward Martorena, 26, now in New York, and Thersad D. Casto, 26, now in Milwaukee, Wis.

Farmer Union Picks Officers

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7—Officers for coming year were elected, farm union members declared and Christmas plans were made at the meeting of the North Shoshone Farmers Union local, 29, Friday at the Grange school building.

Paul Kerner was re-elected president, Neph Clark, vice president, and Mrs. Albert Clark secretary.

They will appoint committee and all will take office at next regular meeting.

The national president's message was read by Clark.

He reported on a recent trip made through northern Idaho, Washington, Montana and Oregon, and on the state of the market.

Brody Kerner was appointed chairman of a committee to plan a Christmas program. The committee will decide on date of the party.

Following a discussion on selling of food north of Shoshone, the group appointed a committee to study the matter and report to next meeting. Appointed by Clay Burman and Charles M. Archie Jones was chairman of the serving committee for the party.

Relate Activities

Mrs. Elsie Miller left Monday for Boise, after visiting her sister, Mrs. Earl Driess, and family.

Paul Hollibaugh has been transferred from Cuba to Norfolk, Va. He is a navy airplane mechanic.

Interest Already Runs High in Second Drawing of North Side Project Farms

RUPERT, Dec. 7—With more than 2,000 inquiries on hand at the bureau of reclamation office here, the second stage of Uncle Sam's farm giveaway program is on the road. A large stack of mail is received every day, inquiring about the next public lottery in which 100 deep-well irrigated farms will be awarded.

In the first drawing last Aug. 4, 4,000 names were in the hat for the land. Only 73 farms were ready for occupancy. The applicants were from 49 states, Alaska, South America and Puerto Rico. Interest in the second drawing seems to be even higher.

There's no hurry about applying for a chance at a North Side farm. The bureau office here, headed by Engineer Orville Kline, hopes to issue the public notice of the drawing by February. Ninety days after that will be allowed for applications.

Names being received now are filed for answering in the order received. Due to the work involved in giving out the first 73 farms, not much will be done about the new applications until after the first of the year.

Veterans who applied last time and did not draw a farm will be entered automatically in the second drawing to receive an application blank and a copy of the public notice. This will not be done in the rest of the drawings, however, since the procedure is expected to be understood thoroughly by applicants when the third drawing comes up.

In all, about 700 farms will be up for drawing in two locations, north of Rupert and Paul and another south of Paul.

At present, about 42 of the first 73 farms have been chosen, and the bureau office is awaiting word from some prospective owners as to financial arrangements. When this has been cleared up, another 15 men will be allowed a chance, in the order their names were drawn last August, until all 73 locations are taken.

Some who drew a farm in the first round were unable to meet the $4,000 cash- or equipment requirement, or decided they didn't care to take the chance.

Drawing date for the second group of farms probably will be some time next spring or in early summer, but has not been decided.

"D-day" celebration here Aug. 4 drew an estimated 10,000 persons.

Local businessmen have not decided on what type of drawing should be held for the second group. One drawing a year is being planned until about 1955.

The original is one to the few, bird species whose female can sing.

It is hoped that this advertisement will help you to avoid the pitfalls of Television that have occurred in some instances in other areas as Television has spread across the nation.

Things you should know about the purchase & servicing of TV Sets!

Sometimes the interference can't be corrected. This does not mean you have a "lemon." Television technicians can do wonders but they can't alter the essential characteristics of, say, a mountain. This is why your next door neighbor may be able to get some channels better than you can.

In any case, if you have trouble with your reception, the sensible thing to do is discuss it with your retailer or service company or television repairman. That way you'll find out what, if anything, can be done about it. Since each case poses individual problems, each must be handled separately and will probably involve extra charges for parts or labor.

ANTENNAE

Antennae come in four common types, each somewhat different from the others. They are:

- 1) The Built-In Antenna—Many sets have these. It should be understood that they will only operate with maximum efficiency under favorable conditions in certain areas and locations.
- 2) The Indoor Antenna—This type may be moved around the room until the best spot for reception is found.
- 3) The Window Antenna—This type will usually give better reception than the above two because it is outside the building.
- 4) The Roof Antenna—This type will ordinarily give you the best possible reception and is recommended wherever an outdoor installation is possible.

In the final analysis the location will determine the type of antenna to be used for best reception.

At the present time the only type of antenna that will produce proper reception in Magic Valley is a good-quality, high-gain, outside antenna installation.

T. V. INTERFERENCE AND HOW it affects your Reception

The images on your screen may be affected by several things.

- 1) Atmospheric conditions, a mountain or even a tall building between you and the transmitting station might adversely affect your reception or reduce the effective range of your receiver.
- 2) "Ghosts" (multiple images) are generally caused by your location and surroundings. Sometimes they can be completely or partially eliminated by antenna adjustments or by auxiliary antenna equipment. Sometimes they can be corrected on some channels and not on others.
- 3) Passing automobiles or airplanes may mar your picture momentarily. Sometimes this interference can be reduced by locating the antenna away from the street side of the building and using shielded lead-in wires. However, don't expect 100% elimination.
- 4) Your reception can also be affected by other television sets or antennas, by nearby diathermy machines, by other electrical devices or by heavy transmission lines nearby.
- 5) Radio equipment, such as police transmitters, amateur ham stations, FM stations and others, often transmit on frequencies which may cause interference on your screen. In almost all cases these stations are operating within the legal requirements as set by the Federal Communications Commission. An expert serviceman will be able to advise you whether or not these purely local interferences can be corrected. It might be well to remember, though, that tracking down an interference may be a tricky and difficult thing. Patience is required.

Red Delegate Raps Policies As 'Criminal'

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Red China called on the United Nations Monday to repudiate what it termed a "criminal" American policy in Korea that it said had led to the present critical situation.

In a caustic, free-wheeling attack, Foreign Minister Chou En-lai charged the United States with "attempts to wreck the Korean armistice agreement, to forcibly reimpose war and to obstruct the peaceful settlement of the Korean question for the purpose of maintaining international tension."

Chou's charges came in a message to the U.N. general assembly in New York, which was broadcast by the Red Peking radio.

He warned the U.N. "If the general assembly should evade its responsibilities, and condone the actions of the U.S. government, the seriousness of the Korean situation would be increased and the U.N. would become a tool of the United States in creating international tension."

Chou's message was no surprise. A major propaganda blast has been expected since the communists flooded in their efforts to win back some 22,000 anti-Red Koreans and Chinese war prisoners who refused to go home.

Observers have speculated that delays in selling up the Korean peace conference have been a result of that failure.

Frenzied Buying In Stock Follows Discovery of Oil

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 7 (AP)—Frenzied buying of Ampol Petroleum shares created scenes today that never before had been witnessed in the 61-year-old history of the Sydney stock exchange.

For hours operators made bids, wrangled and argued. The bidding became so confused that Chairman W. K. Gurney had to call for a halt on several occasions to decide buyers.

The scramble for oil shares, caused by reports of a big windfall in western Australia, showed signs of spreading.

When the first call on Ampol, which holds 70 per cent of Australia's interest in oil explorations, was placed the rate of bidding could be heard outside the exchange.

The stocks opened at 50 shillings (12 1/2 cents) and rose to 55 shillings (13 1/4 cents) by 11:30 a.m. and then jumped to 58 shillings (14 1/2 cents) at the close of trading.

At the close of morning call, more than 23,000 shares of the stock had been sold, forcing the price down to 40 shillings ($5.00).

Writer Attempts To Debunk Santa

PRETORIA, South Africa, Dec. 7 (AP)—With less than three weeks to Christmas, 1953, there is a movement here to debunk Santa Claus (alias Santa Claus) as the patron saint of Christmas.

A writer in the official organ of the Dutch Reformed church of South Africa describes old Santa as an "unpleasant, fat, old man" — at any rate as far as any claims to being the patron saint of Christmas are concerned.

"St. Nicholas was a sixth century bishop and a great benefactor of the poor," he says, "but was commemorated on Dec. 6 with gifts to children. But, because of the close association of Santa Claus with Christmas, he has become confused with Christmas."

Dempsey, Widow Call Off Wedding

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Millionaire widow Mrs. Estelle Auguste broke off her engagement to former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey today.

Mrs. Auguste, whose engagement to Dempsey was announced last week at a gala dinner less than a week ago, said she had discovered the boxer had "other commitments" and "point of view on different things."

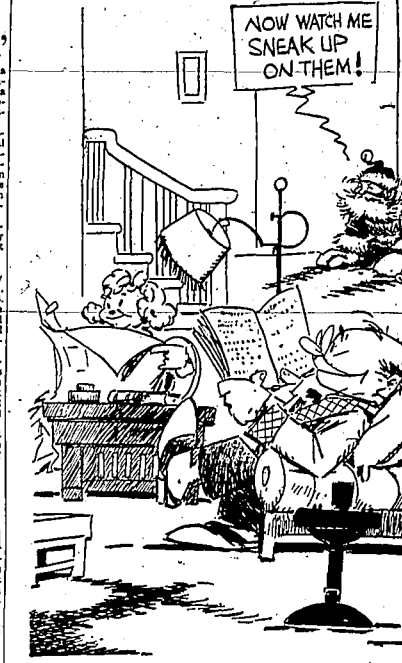

She said the trouble came to a head last night when she wrote a letter to him inviting him to attend the wedding of her daughter, which was scheduled for late this month in Florida.

Mother Earth Has 'Stomach Ulcers,' Just Like People; Result Is Temblors

By ALTON L. BLANKENHORN
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mother earth has her own stomach ulcers — volcanic and earthquakes — little bit like the ulcers of her human kind.

Among humans, there's an ulcer-type, the people most subject to ulcers, and earth has her belts or areas most subject to volcanic eruptions and earthquakes.

As, among humans, it's hard or impossible to predict just when one of one's flare-ups will strike, with power equal to thousands or even millions of A-bombs.

Earth's great volcanic belt circles the Pacific ocean, from Alaska to Antarctica, back up through Indonesia and Japan. A smaller belt circles the Atlantic, from the Azores to the Cape of Good Hope.

About 90 per cent of all volcanoes can be seen from the sea. For the most part, they are concentrated along coastlines, points out Dr. Brian H. Mason, curator of physical geology and mineralogy of the American Museum of Natural History.

The point, he says, is that volcanoes are concentrated along the edges of the earth's crust, where the plates of the earth are moving apart or together. The rising column of fire and smoke from the cracks in the earth's crust is called a volcano.

When the pressure builds up enough, the fire molten rock bubbles up, or bursts, through the cracks. A bomb-like, like fire, erupts.

Much depends upon how much pressure builds up, and how tight the plug within a volcano's throat.

St. Pele's sudden eruption in Martinique in 1902 left only one survivor among 28,000 persons in St. Pierre a few miles away. The lucky one was a prisoner in an underground cell.

Boy, 10, Disappointed as His Prize Hog Sold for Only $422

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bruce Brown, 10, said today he was "disappointed" by the $422 he received for his prize hog at the international livestock exposition with his prize hog.

Bruce said his reserve grand champion Chester White barrow yesterday for $178.75.

"The grand champion steer sold for $200 — $200.00," he said. "I guess there's more money in raising steers than hogs."

"I like him so much, I didn't want to sell him," said the Battleground, Ind., boy. "But I knew I had better sell him or I might not be able to go to college." Bruce planned to bank the money so that some day he may go to Purdue University.

His hog, "Tip Top Topper" was bought by the Reliable Packing company, Chicago. It reported the animal would be butchered.

The grand champion barrow, a Yorkshire entered by Ohio State University, brought $422 a pound from the Agate Packing company.

The all-time high for a champion barrow was a pound paid by the First National bank of Chicago in 1945.

Girl, 23, Near New Mark for Globetrotting

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7 (AP)—Pamela Martin, a 23-year-old Canadian girl who's trying to set a new record, globe-trotting, is scheduled to arrive here from Tokyo at 1:30 p. m. today.

Mrs. Martin wants to make her round-the-world trip in 81 hours and 45 minutes, less getting on and off the plane, and she thinks it looks like she might succeed.

Canadian Pacific airline officials said the plane Miss Martin is aboard was 48 minutes late in getting out of Tokyo this morning, but the company expects to pull a turn-of-the-trip, jet-lagged across the Pacific to make up for lost time. If all goes well, Miss Martin will arrive here at Vancouver at 1:30 p. m. today.

Company officials said the plane was late because of a one-half hour delay in the take-off from Vancouver. Canadian Pacific plans to skip the usual stop at Shenyang and fly high in order to take the jet stream.

Continues East

Miss Martin will probably hop the plane to Seattle, Wash., then head east. So far she has stopped in New York, London, Bombay, Karachi, New Delhi, Calcutta, and other airports—but not for very long.

If Miss Martin completes the record flight, her prize will consist of the airline's first-class cabin. This time she would have stopovers wherever she likes and all expenses would be paid.

Morse Hits Ike's 'Double-Talking'

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 7 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's program is "inconsistent with the general welfare" and the President's call for "progressive action" is just "more double-talking," charged Wayne Morse, Ind. Ore, Sen. here yesterday.

"The administration is undermining the civil service system and substituting the old spoils system," Morse said in an address to the 11th annual Rhode Island CIO convention.

"Government employees today are too scared even to whistle," he said. "The administration is continuing to talk about McCarthyism" while failing to consider the measures that would protect us from it."

Morse said his bill setting up procedures to protect the rights of citizens in congressional investigations still is awaiting congressional consideration.

Model of Mercury Has Plastic Roof

A new model with a transparent plastic roof valve V-8 engine and a suspension system of design are improvements in the 1956 Mercury going on sale in the Pacific Valley dealer district Thursday.

The "Sun Valley" is a hardtop, the top above the front and rear seats is made of transparent plastic, which is mounted on a chrome frame to eliminate the usual green to yellowing of the plastic.

The engine, which powers all the 161 horsepower, is a V-8 with 16 valves, 115 to 116 cubic inches of displacement. It has a compression ratio of 15 to 1. A new four-barrel carburetor has been developed for the new engine.

Lighter and more rigid than the previous model, the 1956 Mercury has five main bearings in the crankshaft, has a new front suspension introduced in 1953 Lincoln. The suspension changes give the 1956 Mercury a lower, longer and wider stance. Bumpers and grille have been restyled.

The Mercury offers 16 body styles in two-tone combinations. Up-grades include broadcloth, vinyl and leather.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7 (U.S.)—Crosby has denied in a suit filed against him by charging that the driver of the other car was under the influence of liquor when the crash occurred Oct. 11.

Solon Calls Dispute Over Soil Revise Big 'Misunderstanding'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (U.S.)—Representative Solon, R. O., said Saturday the new over Agriculture Secretary Benson's reorganization of the soil conservation service was a "misunderstanding."

Solon said a break exchange of denunciation and praise of the plan contained in a two-day hearing. The plan to abolish seven regional offices and transfer some technical functions to conservation offices in the states went into effect Nov. 2.

Solon's opinion is that with some minor changes the plan is pretty well in accord with the views of all concerned.

"It all shows that with a little more light there would be considerably less heat."

"Obviously, the proponents and opponents of this plan are closer together than they realize."

Solon said his own personal recommendation, in advance of any formal committee action, would be that the department of agriculture hire some more public relations specialists.

One of the final witnesses, C. R. Galt, vice president of the Wildlife Management Institute, contended that a "well organized group" has been trying for years to take over the soil conservation service, or to gain control of this exceedingly popular program.

In response to questions, he identified the group as the American Farm Bureau Federation and the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

He said Dr. Milton Eisenhower, plan a first step toward amalgamating the service with the extension service and the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

In reply, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture J. Earl Coke told the committee there was no plan to turn over any of the soil conservation staff to land grant colleges.

The sharpest criticism of the reorganization came from Waters W. Davis, Jr., League City, Tex., president of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Davis acknowledged that modifications of the plan since its announcement had made it more acceptable but said he felt more changes were needed.

Jefferson Davis was first and only president of the Confederate States, being in office when the Confederacy collapsed in 1865.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

School discipline is all very well, but there are times when it hinders instead of helping the pupils. The rules of classroom work are intended to aid the children and their teachers to work harmoniously, a splendid idea so long as it is permitted understanding flexibility.

Claire had an appointment at the dentist office, so she was away from her classroom for some time. When she returned, the other pupils were taking down a spelling list, the words being dictated by the teacher. All the children were intent on their task, the only sounds in the room were the pens and pencils on paper and the words spoken by the teacher.

Claire wanted to get credit for this spelling lesson, but she had no paper, she hesitated to go to a desk to pick up the necessary paper and she did not dare interrupt the teacher to ask for it. So she sat still and waited.

A report on the club's project during the school luncheon, was made by Mrs. Laver Justesen and Mrs. Morgan Sparks.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. LaPell Edwards.

Baseball in Real Trouble, Claims Tribune

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—By this time it must be generally known that baseball is in trouble, because the sports pages have been full of it lately. We doubt, though, that the full extent of the trouble is appreciated even yet.

After a season deeper than the problems connected with radio and television, though these undoubtedly have had their part in making the sport as sick as it is. The simple fact is that the entire minor league structure is threatened with collapse. That means, believe it or not, that baseball as we have known it is in jeopardy.

No set of big league magnates ever met before with as many pressing problems on their minds as those gathering here this week. They wrangle with the players about the pending future of the sport, with the owners, who are mutually suspicious, although potentially exploitable.

Decisions need to be made right now toward relieving the distress of the minor leagues. Even a year from now might be too late, unless the majors have reorganized themselves to eventually drawing their talent from the colleges and universities.

Only five seasons ago, in 1949, there were minor league players in the country's production of players who might eventually help stock the two big leagues. Last season the number had shrunk to 38, and there will be fewer this year. In 1948, all baseball players made a total of $200,000,000 worth of business. Last year the figure was $400,000,000.

Of the 130 minor league players, highest of the minors and long a bulwark of the game, is in a ridiculous fix when it comes to money. They are being paid less than $100,000 a year to buy the San Francisco franchise for $100,000 down. That "sale" since has been broken through, but it demonstrated the precarious situation.

What the men meeting here will do toward helping the little fellow, if anything, we wouldn't try to guess. On their past record, they will consult their lawyers, mediate interests and take a chance on helping the college boys a decade from now.

OSKUT, WY., Dec. 7 (AP)—State fish and game department personnel in the five Panhandle counties have agreed that the trout limit be reduced from 20 to 15.

Major League Meet Opens; Pension Plan Under Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—The major league players were ready today to take the first step toward wiping out the pension plan and warring off the formation of a players union.
